Dear Ross:

I am writing in support of the Resolution to encourage street ambiance before, during and after the Economic Summit. We are particularly eager to encourage buskers (street entertainers), appropriate street vendors and sidewalk cafes. In many communities around the world, this type of heightened activity increases pedestrianism, retail sales and enhances security.

We recommend a few minor changes (see attached) and look forward to getting together with you at your earliest convenience to develop a program for these activities.

Thank you for your efforts.

Dear Ross:

I am writing in support of your resolution to stimulate positive street life in downtown Houston by permitting street vendors and street entertainers in designated areas.

This action aggressively addresses many of the concerns mentioned by Theater District audiences in our recent survey. We are excited to anticipate the improvements in downtown that can be made by instituting a vibrant program of street activity.

In the Theater District, we anticipate encouraging street performers to perform for before- and after-theater crowds. We also envision vending along the lines of artists' markets, where local artists will display their work for sale, and vending carts where the theaters can sell their promotional items.

We intend to work with the City and the surrounding properties to insure that performers and vendors enhance the image of the Theater District and downtown.

Dear Ross:

Central Houston, Inc. wholeheartedly supports the City's initiative to encourage pedestrian-oriented street activities.

We are well aware that Houston's downtown, which has so many advantages, is lacking in this one area. As you know, we coordinate or assist with many projects such as Buffalo Bayou waterfront development, the Theater District, and revitalization of Main Street and Market Square. We recognize the need for positive, directed activities that will enliven the streets of downtown. These programs will also make a contribution to the economic health and growth of Houston's Central Business District.

We will be happy to work with the City in implementing this initiative.
